stranger things: from the perspective of doctor manhattan

season 1:

it is 1983 and there is a town known as hawkins. and deep in the woods of the town is a secret military lab. the lab was used for involuntary and aggravated experiments involving children. there is a young girl who goes by... 11. she was the key to these experiments and accidentally opened a portal. the portal leads to another world.

it is november 3rd, 1983, and a group of friends are playing a boardgame called "dungeons and dragons." just shortly after they hang out, a young boy is heading home. just then he is suddenly taken by something. no one knows what happened to the boy? but from my perspective, these events are going exactly as i predicted it. two days after the disappearance of will byers, the same group of boys meet the young girl from the lab. little did they know, she was the main reason for their friends disappearance.

a day later the chief of police hopper finds the boy, but lifeless. the next week after, everyone grieved over his death except for 2 guys who countlessly bullied will. Mike ends up arguing and then eventually fights the bully. but luckily for him, the young girl they call El saves him without people even noticing. the next couple of days go by and they finally solved the mystery behind will's disappearance. will's mother Joyce Byers figures it out first. and the rest of the crew figure out the world they call the upside down. which from my perspective i think the world is the interpretation of hell by the looks of the place. this is exactly as i predicted.

they had done their best to hide the girl but the organization threatens Mike's parents and they run off. luckily for the girl, she is able to see through people's minds. a very intelligent power i might add. the monster who kidnapped will is what they call a demogorgan. a very funny name. Joyce and Hopper were eventually captured and then tortured in order to find the girl that they have been desperate to find. the organisation was able to find her, and when they caught up with them they were about to kill the 3 boys

the boys had gotten the girl to safety but the creature managed to catch up to them. the boys fight the demagorgan and won with the cost of the girls life. originally how i wanted this story to end. meanwhile in the upside down, they saved will and managed to get him out. will was a bit shakened up as to what happened to him, but his mother was able to calm him. as for mike, lucas, and dustin, they felt sad that the girl was gone. me i felt sympathetic, so i managed to bring her back but without mike even knowing.

it December 1983, and it is christmas, the families are celebrating the holiday with greatest movies, toys, and even games. as for will, he then starts acting strange and then spits put a slug. and he then goes back to the table for his dinner.
